Hong Kong Adventist Hospital Congratulates The Hong Kong University of Science on Establishing Hong Kong's Third Medical School

(Hong Kong — November 18, 2025) Hong Kong Adventist Hospital (HKAH) is pleased to announce the official confirmation of the establishment of Hong Kong's third medical school at The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology (HKUST), and extends heartfelt congratulations. This significant milestone not only marks a major advancement in local medical education but also represents a proactive step forward in Hong Kong's healthcare sector.

As one of the 244 hospitals within the "Adventist Health" global network, HKAH is committed to providing high-quality, personalized medical services to patients while actively introducing advanced medical technologies. The hospital is honored to participate in this important developmental journey and contribute to the progress of healthcare in Hong Kong. A formal memorandum of understanding was signed on March 3 of this year, aiming to leverage this collaboration to promote further development in the medical field.

This mutual collaboration will focus on three main areas:

- Global Training and Research: HKAH is part of the global healthcare network of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, with hospitals, medical schools, and universities in the United States, Australia, Japan, Korea and Malaysia. The collaboration will facilitate cooperation between HKUST and clinical medical experts worldwide, which will help establish an international platform that promotes talent training and research development, with the aim of enhancing the quality of medical education.
- Clinical Training Opportunities: Through its affiliated institutions, including Hong Kong Adventist Hospital—Stubbs Road, Hong Kong Adventist Hospital—Tsuen Wan, and two medical centers, the hospital will provide HKUST medical students with hands-on clinical practice training, enriching their educational experience.
- Centers of Excellence: In response to community needs, multiple specialized centers of excellence will be established to promote community health-oriented projects and practice patient-centered care.

Mr. Alex Lan, President and CEO of Hong Kong Adventist Hospital, expressed his congratulations to HKUST on the approval of establishing the third medical school. He stated, 'As Hong Kong faces an aging population, the demand for medical professionals has become imperative. This collaboration not only advances our mission to provide high-quality medical services but also strengthens medical training and research development. We hope that the outcomes of education and research will benefit society. The establishment of the third medical school represents a pivotal moment in the evolution of healthcare in Hong Kong. We look forward to closely collaborating with HKUST to effectively leverage clinical resources and expertise in support of medical education and research.'

HKAH and HKUST will work together to foster medical development, laying a solid foundation for cultivating exceptional medical professionals.
